DESCRIPTION OF SCANNER 38

Scanner 38 was introduced in 1988 and quickly became a success thanks to its beautiful lines, excellent sailing performance, and well-thought-out design. This is a sailboat that offers both comfort and performance – perfect for anyone looking for a reliable bluewater cruiser or a spacious family yacht.

Sailing and keel

The boat is equipped with a shallow lead wing keel with a draft of 1.55 m. This makes her not only fast and easy to handle in open waters but also ideal for accessing the most idyllic natural harbors. With her 7/8 fractional rig and double spreaders, the Scanner 38 feels stable and safe even as the wind increases.

Interior – spacious and practical layout

Stepping below deck, you are welcomed by a bright and roomy saloon. To port is an L-shaped galley with plenty of workspace and storage, while to starboard there is a practical navigation station.

Further forward, the saloon features settees on both sides and a large central table – a perfect gathering place for family and friends. The generous floor area provides an unusually spacious feel for a boat of this size.

In the bow, there is a double berth with ample storage, and aft you will find the classic owner's cabin. The entrance is to port with direct access to the head on starboard. The cabin is equipped with large wardrobes on both sides, making the boat ideal for longer journeys.
