DESCRIPTION OF HANSE 411

Hanse 411 is a well-designed yacht. With a keel depth of 1.98 m, this model offers excellent sailing performance. Its 9/10 fractional rig with swept spreaders and self-tacking jib makes handling very easy – both in narrow passages and out at sea when the wind picks up. Hanse yachts from this period also leave a very solid impression when it comes to the interior.

Exterior: The boat has a distinctive design. Equipped with a large wheel, it offers many comfortable steering positions on longer passages. Visibility is excellent whether you are seated to the side or standing. With its retractable bow thruster, maneuvering in tight marinas is simple. The cockpit is spacious and comfortably accommodates many people. An electric winch on the coachroof makes hoisting sails effortless. The glued teak deck adds the feel of a luxury yacht and presents very well for the yacht's age.

Interior: Stepping below deck, the boat feels impressively spacious with solid craftsmanship throughout. Natural light enters beautifully. The L-shaped galley offers generous storage and a large fridge for a yacht of this size. The layout is classic, with two generous aft cabins, a spacious head to port, and two comfortable armchairs that add a touch of elegance. The forward cabin is very large, with excellent storage and even a desk.

Sailing performance: The Hanse 411 is designed for easy handling while delivering strong performance. A self-tacking jib simplifies maneuvers, and modern features such as a bow thruster and electric winches make sailing and docking much easier.

Other: The Hanse 411 is a popular model, appreciated for its combination of sailing joy and comfort. Well equipped and ready to sail.
