DESCRIPTION OF HALLBERG-RASSY 48

The boat was surveyed in the spring of 2022 and has been updated at the Rosättra shipyard during the winter of 2023. This boat has been stored indoors at the shipyard for the winter throughout the years. The boat maintains a high level of equipment, including, among other things, a brand new standing rigging that has not yet been installed, as well as a new sprayhood that has not been mounted yet.

The perfect boat for those who are either planning to sail away for an extended period or simply want to sail comfortably and smoothly. Here, you'll find a boat that has been built with the highest quality from the beginning. When it comes to design, Germán Frers has managed to create a boat that sails exceptionally well. You'll find all the necessary equipment for easy sailing. As a helmsman, you can easily maneuver the boat with electric winches and hydraulic controls from the helm station. Inside, this boat gives an immediate impression of secure sailing. Spacious passages yet close to support, rounded corners are a hallmark of a Hallberg-Rassy.

The salon provides a grand impression. To starboard, you'll find the practical U-shaped galley, where you'll feel secure even in rough seas. Further forward to starboard is the U-shaped sofa. To port, you'll find the high-quality Hallberg-Rassy armchairs, both with storage underneath and behind. Further forward to starboard, you'll find the double cabin with bunk beds and ample storage space. To port, you'll find the bathroom with shower and washing machine. Double bed in the bow cabin. In the aft, you'll find the owner's cabin, and the well-thought-out layout allows for sleeping in comfort even while underway. Here, you'll find a toilet with a separate shower. Further forward in the corridor is the access to the engine room, where all electronics are also installed. To port, forward, you'll find the navigation area with the control panel. Adjacent is the combined refrigerator/freezer.
