DESCRIPTION OF HALLBERG-RASSY 372

The Hallberg-Rassy 372 has been praised almost endlessly in the press. It's not that hard to understand why. When Hallberg-Rassy was to produce a 37-foot aft cockpit boat, "a number larger" than their successful 34-footers 34 and 342, it had been close at hand to use the 37-foot hull of the Hallberg-Rassy 37. They didn't, but here we have a 37-foot hull that is newly designed and fully optimized for a 37-foot aft cockpit boat. Here is everything that Hallberg-Rassy stands for in a 37-foot aft cockpit boat, with great sailing characteristics. The fine craftsmanship and the beautiful Frers-designed hull are here exactly as you would expect in a boat from Hallberg-Rassy.

Below deck there is a lovely owner's cabin in the bow, a large salon where everything has been planned very well, including the mast support next to the main bulkhead and not in the middle of the table.

The galley is L-shaped and forward-facing, equipped with everything you need. The toilet is located on SB directly below the companion way. The "wet-cell" includes a separate shower area with a foldable divider. The bathroom is very spacious for a 37-footer. Aft of the galley is the aft cabin. As usual on a Hallberg-Rassy, all areas below deck are designed to be functional, spacious and beautiful.

This 372a is No. 8 from 2009. The first owner is selling a well maintained and nicely updated boat. Here you can find, among other things, fine Elvström sails.

If you are in the market for a yacht with solid construction, aft cockpit, great sailing characteristics, large tanks, and a 55 Hp Penta under the stairs, you be hard pressed to do any better than this Hallberg-Rassy 372.
